Aeroflex Incorporated Agrees to Acquire Advanced Control Components, Inc.

PLAINVIEW, NEW YORK, June 8, 2010 – Aeroflex Incorporated (“Aeroflex” or the “Company”) announced today the execution of a definitive agreement to acquire Advanced Control Components, Inc. (“ACC”) from EMRISE Corporation (“EMRISE”) (NYSE Arca: ERI) for $20 million in cash. The closing of the acquisition is subject to the approval of EMRISE’s stockholders, as well as certain customary closing conditions. Closing is expected to occur in July 2010. The purchase price is subject to a working capital adjustment if the adjusted net working capital at the date of closing is less than the target set forth in the purchase agreement.

“The acquisition of ACC will have a direct and very positive impact on our Microelectronic Solution’s RF and Microwave business unit platform by adding substantially to its portfolio of standard and custom-engineered control components and integrated microwave assemblies,” said John Buyko, Aeroflex’s Executive Vice President and President of the Microelectronics business segment. Mr. Buyko continued, “ACC’s product technologies will help further position Aeroflex as one of the most complete and capable suppliers in the industry. We look forward to welcoming the ACC employees to the Aeroflex team.”

Forward Looking Statements

All statements other than statements of historical fact included in this press release regarding Aeroflex’s business strategy and plans and objectives of its management for future operations are forward-looking statements. When used in this press release, words such as “anticipate,” “believe,” “estimate,” “expect,” “intend” and similar expressions, as they relate to Aeroflex or its management, identify forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements are based on the current beliefs of Aeroflex’s management, as well as assumptions made by and information currently available to its management. Actual results could differ materially from those contemplated by the forward-looking statements as a result of certain factors, including but not limited to, adverse developments in the global economy; dependence on growth in customers’ businesses; the ability to remain competitive in the markets Aeroflex serves; the inability to continue to develop, manufacture and market innovative, customized products and services that meet customer requirements for performance and reliability; any failure of suppliers to provide raw materials and/or properly functioning component parts; the termination of key contracts, including technology license agreements, or loss of key customers; the inability to protect intellectual property; the failure to comply with regulations such as International Traffic in Arms Regulations and any changes in regulations; the failure to realize anticipated benefits from completed acquisitions, divestitures or restructurings, or the possibility that such acquisitions, divestitures or restructurings could adversely affect Aeroflex; the loss of key employees; exposure to foreign currency exchange rate risks; and terrorist acts or acts of war. Such statements reflect the current views of management with respect to the future and are subject to these and other risks, uncertainties and assumptions. Aeroflex does not undertake any obligation to update such forward-looking statements.
